What is the Wireshark

Foundation?

The Wireshark Foundation is a non-profit organization helping as many people as possible understand their networks as much as possible. As time goes on, more and more of our daily life happens using software, and that software relies on network connectivity. By hosting educational conferences, the Wireshark Foundation provides industry professionals and students with the knowledge and understanding required to ensure that the networks and systems we depend on are reliable, secure, and fast.

The Wireshark Foundation fosters open source development and will continue to explore new ways of educating the public.

“ Our members help ensure that everyone has the ability to peer into their networks and make them more reliable and secure. They are an integral part of the Wireshark community. ”

Sheri Najafi, Executive Director of the Wireshark Foundation
